Maestrano goes live with multinational technology distributor

Maestrano Group PLC (AIM: MNO), the open cloud business integration platform with cross-app data synchronization, announces it has now successfully gone live with a multinational, US headquartered, value-add technology distributor.

The Maestrano platform provides a branded white label marketplace platform, enabling products and services to be presented in online storefronts controlled and operated by the distributor's resellers across Asia Pacific and Europe. Achieving this required a deep integration with the back-office ERP platform, a significant technical challenge and achievement.

The resellers will use the platform for product marketing, ordering and fulfilment, covering a wide range of products, applications and services. A progressive roll out of this service by region is now underway.

Stephane Ibos, CEO of Maestrano, commented:

"In line with plans outlined at the time of our IPO earlier this year, and following a period of ongoing development, we are delighted this collaboration with a major multinational technology distributor is now live. As this contract scales up we expect it to lead to additional business opportunities that will further expand our partnership."
